BERLIN, Sept. 13 (Agencies) - Police used water cannons, clubs and tear gas to lisperse young protesters Sunday during a isit by U.S. Secretary of State Alexander laig, who warned in a speech against using a double standard" to judge democracies and otalitarian states.

Police said about 28,000 people paraded brough the streets after Haig's arrival here, arrying signs "Reagan, stop production of he neutron bomh," and other protesters ttacking the U.S.

Some 100 persons were held in "preven-ive custody" because of "aggressive chavior." police said. By mid-afternoon, here were no reports of serious violence. The i di he oute of Haig's motorcade, which had been ept secret, was guarded by bundreds of olice. The 35-ear caravan, which included 0 security vehicles, wound through mostly mpty streets

A spokesman said several policemen were ijured in the street battle, which broke out fter the crowds chanting "Haig go home" tarched to protest U.S. plans to produce eutron weapons and other American arms olicy. It was unlikely that Haig saw the emoustration or any of the violence. ivilian and military police were out in force keep the demonstrators away from Haig nil his party.

In a speech to the City Journalists Associaon. Haig said some people use more stringit criteria to judge democracies than to ulge the actions of Communist and other stalitarian states. He also charged that lethal iemical weapons were being used in south-IM Asia, presumably by the Soviet Union td its allies, in violation of international law, he Soviet Union has repeatedly denied simir charges,

Haig said the "unlawful and inhumane" se of three potent mycotoxins shows up in idence obtained in sotheast Asia. While, dn't directly accuse the Soviets of employ-2 chemical weapons, he said there have en "continuing reports" that the Soviets id their allies have used lethal ebernical capons in Afghanistan. Cambodia and

Those reports have been investigated, aig said, adding: "We now have physical mee from southeast Asia wh ing of the Berlin Wall. He said the use of the potent toxins is prohibited by a 1925 Geneva protocol "and related rules of customary international behavior."

Denouncing what he called a violation of one of the oldest arms control agreements." Haig said the United States is providing the evidence to other countries and to the United Nations, which has already established a group of medical and technical experts to investigate the reports. He said, "The United States will have more to say on this subject" in Washington Monday.

Haig's speech was intended largely to counter recent Soviel efforts to portray the United States as aggressively pursuing a glohal arms race. There have been frequent anti-U.S. and anti-nulcear demonstrations in West Germany and other European countries in recent months;

Haig referred to Sunday's planned demonstrations in his speech, saying the demonstrators "think less well of me and my country than I would wish," But he also said, "We sbould all draw satisfaction from what they tell us about the strength of democracy and the commitment to democratic institutions in this part of Berlin."

Haig argued that a "double standard" which places a greater burden on the conduct of democracies than on Communist and totalitarian nations endangers democratic systems. "It is Soviet tanks, not NATO's defenses against those tanks, that threaten the peace of Europe," Haig said. "It is the rapid expansion of Soviet nuclear weaponary in the European theater that has forced NATO to respond."

A senior U.S. official traveling with Haig said Saturday the Reagan administration expects to win a "tough fight" with Congress over the sale of AWACS planes to Saudi Arabia. "Right now, it is not that promising." the official said in Belgrade.

But he predicted victory once the lawmakers have learned the administration's reasons for the sale. "We think it is going to be a tough fight, but we are going to win because the overall logic is behind that," he said. He indicated that the Airborne Warning and Control System Aircraft are an essential element in the administration's efforts to Move to balance budget Reagan to slash defense by $13b

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13 (R) - President Ronald Reagan has decided to trim Defense spending by $13 hillion over the next three years, saying he acted to strike a balance between the need for economic health and greater military strength.

The White House said Saturday night that the cuts, part of Reagan's efforts to balance the budget, would not affect strategic forces nor jeopardize national security.

The reductions in projected speuding were much less than had been predicted earlier in the month by White House aides who said the, president might cut as much as $30 billion from defense.

Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger, who opposed cuts of that sizes, said he was?" pleased by the decision Reagan made Saturday at his Camp David retreat in Maryland.

In a memo to the Pentagon chief, the president said: "I appreciate the spirit in which you have reached this agreement, and firmly believe that we have struck the balance necessary to assure both an increasingly strong defense and the conomic bealth on which defense and wellbeing depend."

Khaled receives Assad's message

TAIF, Sept. 13 (Agencies) - King Khaled Sunday received a message from President Hafez Assad of Syria. The message was delivered, during an audience, by Abdul Halim Khaddam, Syria's deputy premier and foreign minister.

Present at the meeting were Sbeikh Muhammad Aba Al-Khail, minister of finance and national economy, and Sheikh Muhammad Ibrahim Masoud, minister of state and member of the Council of Ministers. Khaddam later left on his Gulf tour and has arrived at Abu Dhabi. Khadılam is to visit Qatar, Bahrain and

Kuwait also. The announcement about the tour made in Damascus Saturday coincided with a Syrian official statement condensing the strategic cooperation agreements between Israel and the United States. The Damascus statement said that the agreements, reached during Israeli Prime Minister Menahem Begin's visit to Washington last week, would pose a danger to Arah states and endanger peace in the Middle East. It called on all Arab governments "to assume responsibilities in the face of this danger."

The semi-official Damascus newspaper Al -Thawra called on Arab countries Sunday to take decisive measures against the U.S. and strike against its interests round the world. Al -Thawra said in a commentary on the U.S.-Israeli agreement that all Arabs sbould be aware of the dangers from the latest agreement in American-Israeli relations. "Confronting this new form of Israeli-American plot and striking at U.S. interests wherever they are has become the duty of all Arabs." the paper said. "American imperialism has once again proved its enmity toward the Arabs," it added. At Abu Dbabi, Khaddam told reporters. "We do not feel the Soviet threat to the region but we feel the threat directed against the Arab states by Israel.

Gergan said no announcement about reductions in non-defense spending were likely for at least another week. President Reagan is putting together a S74 billion package designed of balance the budget by 1984. But doubts over whether he can achieve that aim have led to sharp drops in U.S. stock and bond markets in recent weeks.

Egypt orders French reporter to quit

In a statement issued by the official Middle East News Agency (MENA). the government accused correspondent Jean-Pierre Peroncel-Hugoz of distorted reporting and of fabricating stories. He was the second foreign journalist in four days to be ordered out of Egypt. The American Broadcasting Company (ABC) correspondent, Chris Harper, was expelled last Thursday.

Peroncel-Hugoz told Reuters he was summoned to the information department Sunday and told of the action. He said be was astonished by the move and asked for 10 days

Top officials blamed for Tehran blast

TEHRAN, Sept. 13 (Agencies) - Secretary of Iran's Security Council Masud Keshmiri was Sunday held primarily responsible for the August 30 bomb attack which killed President Muhammad Ali Rajai and Prime Minister Muhammad Javad Bahonar, Tehran radio announced. It was quoting an announcement by Iran's chief prosecutor Ayatollah Rabani Amlashi, who described Kesbmiri as a "hypocrate" (official for an opposition left-wing Mujahedeen Khalq) who had "infiltrated official services for a уеат."

Avatollah Amlashi did not say if Keshmiri was killed in the explosion. Meanwhile, the interior ministry announced Sunday presidential elections will take place in Iran Oct. 2.

In the 1983 financial year, defense spending will be reduced by $5 billion to $214.9 billion, and in the 1984 financial year it will be cut by $6 billion to 242.6 billion.

Libya would each year donate a total of $1.8 hillion to Syria, $1.2 billion to Jordan and $300 million to the PLO. A sum of $150 million also was to be paid to the joint PLO-Jordanian committee to assist Arabs living in the occupied West Bank and the Gaza Strip. Sunday's statement said Qatar also had

The MENA statement said that Peroncel-Hugoz, Le Monde 's Cairo correspondent for seven years, always centered on negative aspects in his stories and that the government had three times previously complained about his reporting. "It was impossible to leave this journalist to continue insulting and distorting the image of the Egyptian people and government," the statement added.

Peroncel-Hugoz said he had told the information department be completely rejected its ebarges. "I have tried to tell the truth," he added. The expulsion of Peroncel-Hugoz and Harper followed strong assurances from President Anwar Sadat last week that he would never introduce press censorship. Tehran radio said Sunday armed bands loyal to Ayatollah Khomeini attacked two guerrilla hideouts over the weekend, including one 12-hour gunbattle that ended with the arrest of four "girl" insurgents. Pars also quoted a spolesman for Khomeini's government as promising the three-month string of bloody executions will continue because the fundamentalist revolution has no better way to deal with its opponents. Two" pro-American hyprocrites", which is the code word for Mujahedeen Khalq, died in the 12-hour battle in the Caspian sea city of Ramsar, Tehran radio said, adding "eight others were arrested, four of them girls." The broadcast reported three Mujahedeen leaders were arrested in the southern city of Kazerun Affairs Abdul-Aziz Hussein said Sunday the U.S.-Israel agreement for strategic cooperation would "encourage Israel to commit further aggression" against the Arabs.

Hussein told reporters after a cabinet meeting that the agreement would not be a surprise to the Arabs "as Israel always enjoyed U.S. protection." He said that Israel has always been" America's representative in the (Arah) region." "We in the Gulf do not fear any immediate Soviet threat," said Hussein." "But the threat stems from Israel's expansionist policy and its exercise of aggres-

He voiced hopes that Washington will become aware that the "Israeli menace is the only point of disagreement between the Arabs and the United States."

Meanwhile, observers said in Washington that the United States apparently wants "to limit" the range of the new agreement to strengthen military cooperation with Israel. Sources close to the U.S. Defense Department said it would be several months before there were any concrete results, and a high Pentagon official said the agreement was symbolic, at least for the moment.

Begin would like to see the accord made official with a written memorandum, but the official said strategic cooperation with Israel could be questioned if the Israeli government caused the failure of the planned sale of five "Airborne Warning and Confrol System" radar aircraft to Saudi Arahia. President Ronald Reagan considers the proposed sale vital for the defense of American interests, hut Israel has been lobbying against the deal in American Congress.

Observers said the vast program of military cooperation proposed here by Begin bad little chance of immediate acceptance because the U.S. was concerned not to compromise its relations with Saudi Arabia and other Arab countries.

'Peace endangered'

U.S.-Israeli pacts harm Arabs--Syria

DAMASCUS. Sept. 13 (R) - Syria has said that strategic cooperation agreements between the United States and Israel would pose a danger to Arah states and endanger peace in the Middle East.

Cairo, Bonn sign atom agreement

CAIRO. Sept. 13 (R) - Egypt and West Germany have initialed an agreement for peaceful nuclear cooperation, paving the way for the purchase by Egypt of at least two nuclear power stations worth $1 billion each. a spokesman for the ministry of power said Sunday

He said the agreement, initialed Saturday. would be formally signed in Bonn next month. Ministry of power officials said the government had plans to huy power stations from France, the United States and West Germany and install eight by the year 2000 to increase power supply. Egypt ratified the nuclear non-proliferation treaty earlier this year.

A Syrian government spokesman said in a statement Saturday: "These serious agree-ments are hostile to the Arah nation and to peace and security in the Arab region, and will place all American potential at the disposal of the Israeli enemy." Under these agreements, the spokesman said, the U.S. adminstration "has tightly linked U.S. strategic interests and security to those of Israel, thus making both American and Israel one corelated entity

He added: "While the Syrian government warns the United States against this hostile policy, it calls upon the Arab governments to assume responsibilities in the face of this danger and to take all appropriate measures that would guarantee defending the substantial interests of the Arabs, their future, security and existence."

The spokesman urged the Arah masses to "realize the seriousness of the new situation and to prepare themselves to counter this spread of American interests." The Arab nation, he said, "will defeat this aggressive pact as well as all Zionist and imperialist American designs."

NEW DELHI, Sept. 13 (AFP) - Pakistani Amhassador to India Abdul Sattar Sunday dismissed as" unwarranted" recent alarm about the Pakistani acquisition of sophisticated arms, hlaming it on "misinformation and exaggeration."

Describing a proposed $1.5 billion Pakistani arms purchase as "comparatively modest". Sattar commented that "more than this amount is heing paid by India for the purchase of one single item, namely the Anglo-French Jaguar aircraft."

Divisions in Finland's coalition

By Martyn Summerhill

HELSINKI --A political tussle in Finland's coalition government has overshadowed preparation for the 1982 budget and raised a question among Finnish politicians as to how much longer the partners can continue to patch up their differences.

Consensus and common sense are regarded by Finns as the raditional hallmarks of Finnish politics and economics and Finland has become the envoy of its more divided northern neighbors --Sweden, Norway and Denmark. But political analysts said last week's acrimonious exchanges amount politicians of the four parties in the coalition over the scale and content of next year's budget have shown np the cracks beneath the surface of Finland's 31st government since World II.

The coalition, composed of Social Democrats Centrists, Communists and Swedish People's Representatives under the premiership of Naumo Koivisto, has endured longer than many observers here expected when it was formed in 1979. However, it showed signs of strain during last spring's national pay negotiations when the Communists threatened to leave the government over a dispute involving certain social clauses. The differences were finally resolved.

Political analysts said internal dissent in the coalition's ranks hubbled to the surface again when the Center Party insisted that turnover tax - a form of sales tax - should be increased to stop a gap next year's $14 billion draft hudget. It also rejected an alternative proposal by Koivisto's Social Democrats that energy takes should be increased and employers should pay more toward child benefits.

But a week of protracted hargaining was hastened to an uneasy truce by the illness of President Urho Kekkonen, the analysts said. The president, 81. who has been in office for more than 25 years, has cancelled all engagements and has been ordered by his doctors to rest for 30 days because of respiratory infection.

Apart from steering foreign policy. Kekkonen has for most of his presidency dominated domestic politics. Political analysts said, however, that his interventions in domestic politics have become less frequent and this has sparked squabhles over his possible successor who include Koivisto and Ahn Karjalainen, a former foreign minister and prime minister.

The fight for presidential power between the leading candidates is likely to dominate Finnish internal politics throughout the run-up to the next presidential elections in 1984, the analysts said. But Koivisto last week managed to reaffirm his position as prime minister at least for the time being, though internal divisions in the coalition remain deep and could unseat the government soon, they added.

The management of the Finnish economy is a crucial issue among the coalition members and so far this year has brought the government to near collapse on two occasions. The first, in the spring, was resolved. But lat week's tough bargaining and uneasy compromise seem unlikely to have settled the issue, the analysts said. While its Nordic felt the and internal economic imbalances, Finland has prospered and looks set for another year of economic growth.

WHO THREATENS WHO!

U.S. politicians, whose voice is crucial for any peace or war in this restless world, are equally called upon to listen to the voice of rea - to study Saudi Arabia's eight point peace initiative.

They have heard Menahem Begin preaching to them about the endangered existence of his people living among millions of "hostile" Arabs. This successful argument has netted the Arabs' Number One enemy "strategic cooperation" with the United States. Both the Israelis and American politicians now take pains to say that the U.S. military assistance in the form of a "complicated scheme" is directed against the Soviet threat. Both Israelis and these same polificians ignore the fallacy of Tel Aviv's" argument" that it was endangered hy the "hostile" Arabs.

Who threatens Israel? The Soviet Union whose immigrants constitute half of the settlers in occupied Palestine? The Arahs whose peace initiative hardly receives lip service from American congressmen, or who hardly show interest to learn about the legitimacy of the Arab rights in Palestine?

The threat to the Arabs comes from two sources -- Israel itself and new U.S. war machines which find Israel the best testing ground.

A few hours before Begin concluded his visit to Washington the U.S. Department of Defense announced that technical experts will travel to Israel Sept. 20 to discuss "the complicated scheme" of strategic cooperation. The speed of discussing such military cooperation with Tel Aviv makes the ordinary American believe that Israel is being wiped out of existence. By whom? By the Arabs whose arms requirements may not pass the U.S. Congress!, or by the Soviet Union who insists on hard cash for the smallest order from the Palestine Liberation Organization to defend its refugees camps in Lebanon against Israel's deadly air strikes.

Adding oil to the fire the Pentagon's experts in Tel Aviv, according to the Defense Department, will arrange purchase of Israeli-made 'defense" items as agreed under the "strategic cooperation" between the two sides.

Israel, which is having difficulty in marketing its military production, has discovered how to sell its military products to the United States and have the United States pay for those products and just leave them with the manufacturer - and all at the expense of the American taxpayer.

'POLITICAL MATH'

The U.S. government and the head of its budget department, President Reagan, seem to be doing their accounting with some new political math," which enables the president to obtain a maximum amount of publicity from announced "hudget cuts" which will put the federal hndget further in the red than ever.

Even a first-grade mathematics student can compute that if the United States spends $181.8 billion on defense in 1982 and will be spending $242.6 billion in 1984, it is an increased, not a decreased budget. Such calculations make one wonder about President Reagan's promises to "halance" the budget hy 1984, unless he is talking about halancing it as far as possible in the red.

No wonder the White House acclaimed the president, saying his "hudget cuts" were part of efforts to balance the hudget and would not affect strategic forces or jeopardize the national security. According to the figures announced at Camp David, his "compromise" between his defence secretary and budget director amounts to a three-year increase in the defense budget of $60 hillion - an actual increase of more than 33 percent. The Defense Department can huy a lot of MX missiles with a little spare cash like that.

It is astounding that the only ones who seem to be protesting such an increase are anti-nuclear and anti-war advocates. Where the heck is the American taxpayer, and where does he think that the $20 billion extra a year is going to come from if not his pocket.

How can the United States expect ever to have a strong economy again if such deficit spending goes on unchecked? In taxpayer mathematics, "cutbacks" mean exactly that, cuthacks. If the government 1 plans of spend $181.8 billion on defense in 1982, then accepted accounting practices and the U.S. taxpayer should dictate that the figure should be reduced if a real hudget cut is taking place. If any American taxpayer tried to use these accounting practices, the Internal Revenue Service would lock him up forever and throw away the key. New math, new political math or deficit spending math means the American taxpayer, as always, ends up paying for a deficit of not millions, hut hillions. The shocking part is that with publicity hailing the president's budget cuts, to many citizens he immediately becomes a hero and they forget to look at the actual hudget figures.

However, Finnish politicians are at pains to say that growth next year will slow shapply, bringing with it strains already making themselves felt in the coalition's ranks.

Centrist Finance Minister Ahti Pkkala said recently that the draft hudget for 1982 was being formulated on the basis of an estimated growth in gross domestic product (GDP) of a real two percent next year compared with about five percent in the previous year. The slower GDP growth meant that the government would have to consider cutbacks in various sectors, including investment and finance to both the public and private sectors, he said.

While the Centrists pushed for increased turnover taxes to plng the $260 million hole in the hudget, the coalition's left-wing parties urged instead that increased revenue should be taken from an electricity tax and that employers should pay more toward child benefits.

Moreover, the scale of Finland's foreign and domestic borrowing was likely to rise to about $1.4 hillion next year from this year's estimated $750 million, government sources said. The higher proportion of total forecast hudget expenditure given over to servicing the national debt reduces possible outlays for other items in next year's hudget, financial analysts said, adding that this has possible heightened dissident in the coalition over how to manage the country's economy. The Kingdom's newspapers Sunday led with a meeting between Crown Prince Fahd and U.S. Secretary of State Alexander Haig in Spain Saturday, during which the Crown Prince explained his peace plan to Haig and accepted an official invitation to visit Washington and meet with President Reagan.

The graduation of the 16th hatch of officers from the National Guard's military school in Khasm Al-Aan near Riyadh Sunday was covered as a page one story, which said that Prince Abdullah, second deputy premier and commander of the National Guard, would chair the ceremony. They also frontpaged Minister of Defense and Aviation Prince Sultan's visit to Asir in the context of his current tour of the Southern Region. The opening of the vital road link near the Museum in Beirut was prominently reported on the front page of newspapers which also reported that the Palestinian resistance is reinforcing its units in South Lehanon to confront any fresh aggression hy the Zionist forces.

In an editorial, Al Medina said that Saudi Arabia rejects any alliance between the U.S. and Israel under any name or slogan. The Kingdom's stance on pacts or alliances has always been very clear. The establishment of a strategic alliance between the U.S. and Israel will, sooner or later, constitute a hig danger and jeopardize all efforts being exerted to realize a just and lasting settlement to the Middle East problem, the paper said. It added that this new alliance would also spoil U.S. relations with the Arahs for generations to come. Nobody will he ahle to remove the scar if the American administration did not move to ohliterate this threat as from now, the paper added.

Controversy over radioactive waste

TOKYO -When Pacific region leaders met on Guam Sept. 2-3 for the third executive conference of the Association of the Pacific Basin, the chair reserved for the guest of honor was vacant.

"Too busy," claimed Ichiro Nakagawa, director general of Japan's Science and Technology Agency. He turned down a personal invitation from Guam Governor Paul Calvo to discuss Japan's controversial plan for dumping radioac-tive waste in the Pacific Ocean. Officials of the agency would not comment further, hut Tokyo newspapers said Nakagawa wanted to avoid a showdown that has been looming for 18 months, since Micronesian leaders learned of Japan's threatened to strafe South Lebanon when it sensed that reconciliation among the parties concerned in Lehanon had almost become a reality, the paper said. It added that any fresh attempt by Israel to stop the implementation of the resolutions of the Arah Follow-Up Committee should be met by the Arabs with an equal force of resolve and challenge.

On the same subject, Al Jazirah noted that the opening of the civil crossing point in the Museum area in Beirut has been a big step on the road to a peaceful settlement to the Lebanese crisis. The paper said that Saudi Arahia has consistently made constructive efforts toward the solution of the Lehanese crisis and has never failed to lighten the hurden of the Lehanese government and people hy giving generous material and moral support. Saudi Arabia has played a courageous and unprecedented role in supporting the legitimate authority in Lebanon, the paper said.

Referring to Fahd-Haig talks in Spain, Al Nadwa observed that the Crown Prince has explained to the Secretary of State the risks involved in the policy being pursued by America at present. The paper urged the U.S. to realize that its alliance with the Israeli enemy would only tend to add fuel to fire in the Middle East and place America's national interests in the region under risks. Haig will not be able to convince anyone that America's strategic alliance with Israel is meant to protect the Jewish entity from threats coming from outside the region (meaning the Soviet Union and its agents). The Arabs have been under constant threat from Israel for the past more than 30 years, and the cstablishment of this alliance would only help to consolidate the Israeli occupation of the Arah lands. The U.S. can still reconsider this alliance if it is really anxious to preserve its interests in the region, the paper added.

desire to create a permanent dumpsite for lowlevel nuclear waste in a remote area of the Pacific.

Micronesia refers to the islands of the U.S. trust territory of the Pacific, former Japanese colony in the central Pacific islands spanning 3.200 kms from Belau in the west to the Marshall Islands in mid-ocean. Guam is a U.S. territory, Nakagawa's absence did not defuse the issue. The Guam conference adopted a resolution demanding that Japan immediately cancel its plan for waste dumping at sea and offer an alternative. Last year the delegates merely asked for a guarantee that the plan was safe.

The Micronesians contend that dumping of drums of nuclear waste at sea would pose a major threat to the ocean - that Japan has no right to expose others to its hazardous industrial waste that once begun, the program would lead to dumping of high-level waste as well. They argue that deep ocean currents and pressures might rupture the containers and leaks would contaminate the food chain.

"We're being used as guinea pigs," said David Rosario, a member of the Marianas Alliance against Ocean Dumping. Governor Carlos Camacho of the northern Marianas bitingly suggested that if the waste was as safe as the Japanese claim, they should "store it at the foot of Mt. Fuji.'

The Micronesians, recalling that the United States and France conducted nuclear tests in their area without prior consultation, have tried to start a "nuclear-free Pacific movement." As a U.N. trust territory governed by the United States, they have appealed unsuccessfully to Washington to stop the Japanese dumping plan. Japanese officials are said to be less concerned about the Micronesians, however, than about objections from Japan's commercial fishing industry, which came out strongly against nuclear development last year after a nuclear power plant leak caused a risk to fishing grounds of western Japan.

The government has had no success in convincing the politically powerful fishermen to drop their objections. Privately, officials insist the fishermen are not concerned about present safely measures are inadequate, but fear that fish prices may fall because of the controversy.

A spokesman for the National Fishermen's Cooperative Union said the fishermen do not trust government safety claims because they have proved inaccurate in the past, and "under present circumstances, it is impossible that we will consent to sea dumping." Facing resistance from the islanders, the fishermen and anti-nuclear groups, the science and technology agency indefinitely delayed a pilot dumping operation that was to have begun this month.

Nevertheless, preliminary steps toward implementing the plan are going ahead. Noting that Japan has ratified the London dumping convention and last month agreed to join the nuclear energy agency of the 17-nation Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development (OECD), Japanese officials say they can and will proceed without an agreement with the Micronesians.

The plan calls for dumping an initial 30,000 canisters of solidified low-level radioactive waste from Japan's 21 working nuclear reactors, at depths of 5,000 to 6,000 meters in international waters between Japan's main islands and the northern Marianas islands in the northwest comet of the trust territory. In the past year, the science and technology agency sent four groups of officials and scientists to the Pacific to promote the dumping project. Nakagawa recently returned from New Zealand and Australia; where he sought their support for the plan.

The issue of radioactive waste managen critical to Japan's plan to step up nucless power capacity to 53,000 megawatts (mw) from the cur-rent 15,000 mw by 1990. Low-level watt, mind with cement and packaged in SS-gallon inductrial drums, has been piling up in warehouses (7, 20 years. The storage capacity will be additioned within a decade, so the government is expet to start disperse at sta

Top Japanese officials concede that the callieters eventually will corrode and discharge the waste, but they say the low-lovel waste goes little risk of contamination.

Takehiko Ishihara, director of Japan's radioactive waste management center, claims the lovel of radioactivity in the cesium, strontium, and cobalt marked for disposal is far lower than radiation occurring naturally in sea water.

Critics say that once the low-level dumping began, it would be only a matter of time until high-level waste also was being duraped. Nakagawa angered critics last May when he told Camacho that the waste-lades drums were to sale that "I wouldn't mind embraiding them or even sleeping in bed with them."

He also promised the Diet (pertinment) he would not proceed with dumping without the "understanding" of domestic fishences and the Micronesians. The Japanese now appear to be running out of patience." We've wasted five years explaining our plan to them." complained ishihara. If they continue to oppose the operation, he added, "I'm afraid we will have to go aboad without their approval."-(AP)

Halsell recalls strolling with several omen students at the Palestinian Bir Zeit iniversity campus near Ramallah when niformed Israeli soldiers began running ward them.

"They are throwing tear gas, officers are louting orders in Hebrew, and soldiers are ring rifles into the air - their shots whiz ver my head and around my cars.

"I feel like I am entering some medieval ghetto. I walk along a narrow alleyway, skirting an open sewage ditch. I pass tens of dozens of one-and-two room houses, each leaning on the other for support. I am in a ghetto without streets, sidewalks, gardens, patios, trees, flowers, plazas or ships."

It was in a camp like this that Halsell met 17-year-old Nahla who, several days before, had been arrested and jailed for demonstrat-. ing. The seven people in Nahla's family cat and sleep in one room. There are no beds, only blankets stacked against the wall. Will To Survive Astonishing

"Living with Nahla and her family, I am astonished both by their poverty and by their will to survive under the weight of being a people without a political party, a government, a land, a people without an identity and without a promise for tomorrow," Halsell writes.

The author also lived with a Palestinian Christian family and found the same determination among them. "I always found there was no difference between Palestinian Muslims and Christians in their one goal, which is to be free of the Israeli occupation, of the gun over their heads," Halsell says.

In ABC two-part TV report PLO shown as a beneficial group helping Lebanon's Palestinians

By Hisham Melhem Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON - In a two parts broadcast on the Palestine Liberation Organization (PLO) last week, ABC television on network tried to dispel the American public perception of the PLO as a militant organization bent on waging terroristic acts against its enemies, by showing how the organization functions off the battle field.

Through an examination of the economic, political and cultural institutions of the PLO, the American public was exposed to an organization that is very much a genuine government representing and defending its people. The report, which was filmed in Lehanon and narrated by ABC correspondent Mike Lee, covered the multifaceted activities of the Palestinians in Lebanon, ranging from movie-making, and managing factories and markets, to the administration of the PLO's think tank in Beinst: The Palestinian Research Center. The center where 'scholars with a 60,000 volume library and a microfilm archive, along with intelligence experts with agents inside Israel, formulate policy advice for PLO leaders.'

The report indicated that the omnipresent PLO effects the lives of all Palestinians in Lebanon. It employs 4,000 Palestinians in 40 workshops and factories throughout Lebanon, another 5,000 Palestinians earn money in their homes, making a variety of items for PLO businesses. The report added, that these enterprises are run "by the factory workers themselves, who decide the level of production, and set their own salaries according to how well the business is doing." Workers are entitled to social security and medical insurance.

According to Chairman Yasser Arafat, the Palestinians have the highest literacy rate in the region, "We have 5,000 professors in the U.S." he said.

The report revealed that the Palestinian owned and operated Arab Bank whose leadership is closely connected to the PLO "is now the largest most powerful Arab backer of economic development in the Middle East with branches and affiliates extending into major European capitals as well as New York City, and with assets worth at least $5 billion. The report added that the Arab Bank ranks among the top 10 percent of banks in the world. The ABC broadcast coincided with

Menahem Begin's visit to Washington, which comes amid mounting criticism of Begin's policies in the American media.

Recently, the ABC network came under criticism from Arab-American groups who charged that the network's program "20/ 20" in two broadcasts propagated a biased and misleading image of the Palestinians. On April 2, 20/20 aired a program called "the unholy war" which purported to deal with Palestinian 'terrorism' without any attempt at understanding the historical causes or reasons for the Palestinian struggle. The Palestinian violence was labeled terrorism, while Israel's military attacks were described as reaction or retaliation, since Israel is "of necessity ..., fighting ter-FOT.

On Aug. 27, 20/20 hroadcast a program called "if you were the president" which was about a hypothetical take over of a super tanker off the New York City harbor. By a group of Palestinians belonging to the Popular Front for the Liberation OF Palestine. The group threatened to blow up the tanker unless the U.S. government paid them one billion dollars, and recognize a Palestinian state on the Occupied West Bank. The Arab-Americans contended that it was obvious that the premise of the program was that the term terrorism was synonymous with Palestinians.

"At least in Vicam and Korea, the lines were drawn. Here ie Occupied West Bank) anything can hapn. A bomb can go off, you can be arrested, y kind of reason can be given."

Halsell went to the Occupied West Bank thout knowing anyone and eventually me to know and live with four families: two wish couples, Christian family in Bethtem and a Muslim family living in a Palestilook out the window for fear, of seeing another bulldozer," said Halsell. Once before, there had been a bulldozer. Her husband ran out and threw himself down in front of it," Halsell relates. "They apparently didn't run over him, but threw him aside and then he came back to the house and died of a heart attack."

People can stand in front of bulldozers, they can protest to the courts, the author points out, but the buildozers always get through. "It's just the Palestinians living in one-fourth of what was Palestine and they (Israelis) don't want them to have that. Bobby Brown (a Jewish settler) has no compunction in saying, 'It's the Palestinians' problem. They speak Arabic. They should go to some other Arab country."

But the Palestinians who are forced from their land do not go to other Arab countries as Bobby suggests. They go, instead, to refugee camps on the Occupied West Bank.

Seventeen-year-old Mervat, a Christian, lives with her family halfway between Jerusalem and Bethlehem. Daily she lives with the sight of Jewish soldiers, on roofs of buildings, in the streets. Halsell once asked Mervat what aspect of Christianity appealed to her most. Withont hesitation, she replied, 'Forgiveness."

"I found little hatred in the hearts of the Palestinians, although I think they are the people with the greatest justification for hatred. The Palestinians seem always to remember that they don't hate the Jew as the Jew, but as the Zionist," Halsell said. Religion Used As Excuse

Of the two Jewish couples that Halsell lived with, one of them, Linda and Bobby Brown, belong to the Gush Emunium, an ultranationalistic organization whose members are willing to go to war for the Occupied West Bank. The Browns are third-generation Americans from New York City. Before he immigrated to the Occupied West Bank, Bobby worked for Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. for five years, riding the subway to work. Now, from an illegal Israeli settlement called Tekoa, Bobby commutes an hour to Tel Aviv where he works for the Jewish Agency assisting immigrants to Israel. Tekoa was established when the Browns, with 15 other couples under cover of night, confis-cated 750 acres of land near Bethlehem inhabited exclusively by Arab Palestinians. Settlers like Linda and Bobby want a Greater Israel, and they justify much of what they do in the name of religion, yet Halsell found few manifestations of religion at the illegal settlement

"It was fascinating to me," she says, "because they never talked about religion. I never saw them go to any synagogue. They didn't do anything religious in my way of thinking." Halsell came to believe that people like the Browns are "just using that fanatic brand of religion to further their kind of nationalistic aggression. That's the only place in the world I know where someone like Bobby would be given money and guns to steal. Certainly he couldn't do that in Brooklyn. Where else can you get a submachine gun and play cops and robbers and go take land from people and sort of he a frontieramm, a law west of the Pecos?" Halsell asks. "With all those guns, it's really cowboys and Indians allover again in a very modern age." The Browns and the other illegal settlers who do not want peace if they cannot have a Greater Israel, have a God of war, Halsell says. She found, however, that another Jewish couple, Aviva and Renven, have a God of peace. Renden, a native of Rendester, New York, and his wife Aviva, who is from England, live on a farm, or moshav, halfway between Jarusalem and Beersheba. They believe that the internationally recognized boundaries of Israel are fixed and do not want to risk war to extend those boundaries. Halse" likes to believe, she says, that there are more people like Aviva and Reuven than Linda and Bobby, a growing number of people who want peace.

Bus blast kills 20 Ugandans

KAMPALA. Uganda, Sept. 13 (AP) — Twenty civilians were killed Saturday when a bus they were riding in detonted a land mine eight kms east nf Kampala near Manambe forest, the government radio annnunced.

Minister Jnhn Luluwiza-Kirunda on the 8 p.m. news said the government of President Miltnn Obote will take all necessary action to curb the activities of "bandits" in Kampala area. The minister disclosed in the same announcement that nine civilians died Thursday when the bus they were riding in detonated a land mine 29 kms north nf the capital near Bombo.

There were no further details on either of the incidents. But travelers arriving in Kampala said the latest blast occurred Saturday afternoon along the main road from Rampala to the border with Kenya. They said traffic was diverted aff the main road while soldiers helped clear the wreckage. Since last February anti-government forces have been attacking police and military installations and planting land mines nn well-traveled roads.

The forces claim Obote rigged last December's election which returned him to power after nearly a decade of rule hy former President Idi Amin. Amin seized power from Obote in January 1971 and was himself nverthrown in April 1979.

Army reprisals against the forces, some nf them still loyal tn the exiled Amin, have frequently resulted in the deaths of civilians. Local residents said government soldiers rampaged through the village of Wakiso, 16 kms west of Kampala, last weekend and killed some 20 persons.

d Hariling, the U.N. high commissioner fugees, said Saturday that close to half world's 10 million people who fled iomelands or were displaced by war or il catastrophies were from LDCs or had refuge there. In 1981 and 1982, Hartilicated, his organization intends spend-00 million for some 4.5 million reguees in one or another of the LDCs.

majority of these refugees are in t, the official said, where 21 of the 31 are located. Of particular concern is uation created in the Horn of Africa by al problems of a drought and the con-petween Ethiopia and Somalia, he Another African concern for the high sission. Hartling said, was the repatriatioo of Chadian refugees who have fled to Cameroun from their country's civil war. Last April, a conference on refugees in Africa conducted jointly by the United Nations and the Organization for African Unity (OAU) came up with a pledge of $500 million to be put up by the international community toward solving that prohlem. according to Hartling.

In Asia, the higgest problems are the Afghan refugees in Pakistan and the status of refugees from Indochina in other Southeast Asian countries, the official said. There are now two million Afghans in Pakistan, where the high commission is conducting an operation to help about 1.7 million of these.

In Latin America, he went on the most serious problem is that of refugees fleeing from El Salvador to other Central American countries. Other informed sources reported that a worrisome situation is also huilding up in Guatemala. Neither El Salvador nor Gautemala are actually among the LDCs hut Haiti is, and there people are becoming refugees because of political repression or the extremely low standard of living, the same sources added.

"The most desirable long-term solution," Hartling explained, "is voluntary repatriation," hut the problem was that one needed first to create the necessary conditioos. In many cases this was not feasible, so that there was only a choice between integrating people in the host country or transferring them to still another.

A major problem in this respect, according to Hartling, was the underdevelopment of the host country itself even if in theory there was enough land for the refugees to settle. This, he said, was the case in countries such as the Sudan or Tanzania, who received great num-bers of Ugandan refugees fleeig the regime of the ousted Idi Amin.

It had been originally planned for the LDC conference to review the root causes leading people to flee their countries. That discussion finally was shelved, presumably, in the view of observers, so as not to introduce divisive political exchanges into a meeting essentially dedicated to obtaining an increase in outside

"Between the center of the flight path followed by the aircraft and the edge of the exercise area there were 22 nautical miles," Gen. Fazzino said. But he added the question of any actual danger would depend on whether the missile was properly fired within the exercise area and the aircraft was on its proper course.

Italian newspapers reported the incident under banner headlines Saturday, A DC-9 of another domestic airline, Itavia, exploded mysteriously near Ustica on a night flight to Palermo in June last year and all 81 persons on board died. The Itavia crash triggered allegations that it had been hit hy a missile, but continuing investigations have produced no public explanation so far.

HAVANA, Sept. 13 (R) — Delegates from more than 90 nations have begun arriv-ing to Havana for a meeting of the Inter-Parliamentary Union (1PU) which begins Tuesday with a speech by Cuban President Fidel Castro. Parliamentary and congres-sional representatives, including the presi-dents of about 20 legislative assemblies, will take nart in the nine-day conference take part in the nine-day conference.

The Geneva-hased body, founded in 1889. groups legislators from 94 countries and discusses world affairs at twice-yearly meetings. Its last two meetings, in East Berlin and Man-ila, condemned the December 1979 Soviet intervention in Afghanistan.

Delegates from both the Soviet Union and Untied States were expected here. IPU Secreatry-General Pio Carlo Terenzio said Costa Rica and Colomhia had said they would be absent and a diplomatic source said the decision stemmed from their tense relations with Cuha.

Terenzio told a news conference that six new members, Guyana, Peru, Congo, Benin, Zimhahwe and Uganda, would probably be accepted for membership during the meeting.

Oil fuels inflation orway faces problem of plenty IMF talks set

OSLO, Sept. 13 (R) -- Norwegians vote in general elections Monday amid a continuing argument over their main economic problem: They have more money than they know how to spend.

Revenue from North Sea oil and gas will give Norway, with a population of only four million people, a balance of payments surplus estimated by Oslo bankers at 10 billion crowns ($1.7 billion) this year. But the oil wealth is proving a mixed blessing, fuelling inflation now running at 14 percent and pushing up costs for traditional industries like fishing, mining and forestry.

Like its neighbors Sweden and Denmark, Norway has high labor costs, low productivity and sluggish investment in manufacturing. Without oil to mask its problems, the Norwegian economy would be in a state of crisis.

The oil industry already accounts for nearly 14 percent of gross national product (GNP), the total value of goods and services produced in the country in a year. "The answer is for us to export some of our excess money and stimulate general industrial competitiveness," one banker told Reuters.

The main political parties contesting the meral elections have made the economy their chief campaign issue, but they share the same goals despite differing financial policies. All want to avoid Norway becoming what they call a 'Nordic Kuwait' flooded with upproductive cash and over-dependent on a single resource

Mrs. Brundtland said labor would continue on this path if it won the elections. Norway is expected to produce 7.1 million barrels per day (PBD) of oil this year with an annual export value of 60 billion crowns ($10 billion).

Both labor and the opposition Conservative Party, which is expected to make gains in the election, agree oil production should not rise above 1.8 million barrels per day. The small center party, which might join the Con-servative and Christian People's parties in a coalition if labor does badly, believes Norway is already over-dependent on oil.

With its base among farmers, the party has called for an oil production ceiling of one million BPD to protect the natural environment and traditional Norwegian way of life. Although Labor and the Conservatives want broadly the same rate if economic growth, they disagree fiercely over how to achieve it. Conservative leader and economist Kaare Willoch devoted much of his election campaign to attacking the economic record of Mrs. Brundtland, in office only eight months. In particular, he denounced a recently imposed price freeze as evidence the government had lost control of inflation.

The Conservative leader is offering voters a four-point economic program to cut taxes, curb bureaucracy, halt Socialist plans for worker representation on company boards and open the oil and gas industry to private enterprise.

His promises of tax cuts worth seven billion growns ($1.2 billion) over the next four years have brought him a large following, especially among young industrial workers, who earn on average 95,000 crowns ($16,000) a year and pay out 35 percent of it in tax.

At the same time, Willoch has taken pains to stress his commitment to full employment.

World Bank,

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13 (AP) -- World inflation, unemployment and interest rate levels will be the major topics at the upcoming meeting of the 141 International Monetary Fund members, the IMF has said. The at meetings of the fund and the World Bank are to be held from Sept. 29 to Oct. 2.

Valentin Arismendi Elgue, will chair the meetings and will deliver the opening address, the fund said. J. de Larosiere, managing director of the monetary fund, and A.W. Clausen, the World Bank president will deliver their annual addresses and present their organization' annual reports.

This will be Clausen's first appearance before the World Bank and Monetary Fund meetings since he succeeded Robert S. McNamara as World Bank president.

The monetary fund announcement noted that the meetings will closely precede the Oct. 22-23 summit meeting in Cancun, Mexico, of the heads of state and government of industrial and developing countries. The Cancun agenda will include food, energy, trade industrialization and finance.

Japan develops coal-oil fuel

TOKYO, Sept. 13 (R) - Japanese power stations are to start using a fuel made from coal and oil as part of efforts to lessen the country's heavy dependence on oil, an electricity generating company said Saturday.

The Tokyo Electric Power Company one of Japan's 10 power companies, said it would convert two oil-burning plants at Yokosuka to use a coal-oil mixture called Com in 1984 and 1985.

It said the new fuel would reduce fuel consumption by about a third, or 1.86 million barrels a year.

The power stations would have antipollution equipment to remove sulphur and dust. The company siad the new fuel was as easy as oil to transport and store and had been developed by the semiofficial Electric Power Development Company (EPDC) at its Com pilot plant in Hiroshima.

The fuel will be produced at Onahama in northern Japan, by the Japan Com Company, a joint venture of the two power companies and five other firms. A spokesman for Japan Com told Reuters that the plant would initially produce 900,000 tons of Com a year. The world's first Com tanker with a loading capacity of 5.000 to 10.000 tons would be built to ship the fuel to Yokosuka, he said.

NOVA SCOTIA, Sept. 13 (AP) - Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau, under pressure to help Canadians deal with high interest rates, ended a two-day economic strategy session with promises of possible aid only for those in "absolute dire straits."

Trudeau rules out relief

Opposition parties and even some in Trudeau's own Liberal Party have called on the government to provide relief for farmers, small businessmen and homeowners hurt by record-high interest, which is in part a spillover of high U.S. rates.

Mortgage rates, now about 22 percent, are an especially volatile issue in Canada because short-term and variable-rate mortgages have long been the norm bere, meaning that a relatively large percentage of homeowners have had to renew their mortgages at the current rates.

Trudeau met at a secinded lodge on the Cape Breton coast here with the 11 other members of the cabiner's priorities and planning committee to discuss long-term economic plans and the national budget,

Anti-music piracy drive launched

SINGAPORE, Sept. 13 (R) — An international organization said Saturday it has joined a major campaign to stamp out music piracy in Singapore, which has become the world's largest producer of pirated cassettes.

The International Federation of Producers of Phonograms and Videograms (IFPI), which set up an office here two months ago, said it was coordinating a drive following requests from local recording companies. IFPI regional director James Wolsey, a

British lawyer, told Renter, the record industry here had been losing more than 200 million Singapore dollars (U.S. $100 million) a year because of the illegal music

"Music pirates have for too long been openly breaking the law here and getting away too lightly. Under Singapore's out-. dated copyright laws, a convicted music pirate has at the most to pay a maximum fine of $1,000 (U.S. $500) Wolsey said.

Interest rates hit Canadians which is to be introduced next month. "Don't expect any generalized relief," Trucau told reporters at the conclusion of the talks. "If there is any relief it would be very narrowly directed to those in absolute dire straits. Finance minister Allan Maccachen delivered a similar message later, saying some homeowners would have to rearrange their financial affairs to meet higher mortgage payments. Other officials said the cabinet committee was concerned about the potentially staggering costs of any broad relief program.

The chief opposition party, the Progressive Conservatives, proposes making mortgage-interest payments tax deductible, as in the United States, to help homeowners. The Socialist New Democrats, Canada's No. 3 party have called for legislation to lower mortgage rates. Trudeau said Liberal members of parliament will discuss the economic plans and budget next Tuesday in Ottawa, and the full cabinet will consider them Wednesday.

Conference delegates were negotiating night and day in an attempt to reach an accord by Monday, the scheduled elosing date for the conference. But following the Japanese statement, it was clear that a lastminute compromise was oceded if the rich and poor nations were going to agree on future aid for the poorest countries. Calling for aid-giving countries to do their "maximum" for boosting aid to the LDCs, Kitahara indicated that Japan could not accept the target because it would call for an enormous increase in Japanese aid. The United States has also steadfastly rejected all aid targets.

In 1979, Japan allocated 0.06 percept of its GNP for aid to the LDCs, he said, without giving the precise dollar amount.

Kitahara said that Japan could also not accept the target because it would siphon aid away from Asia where much of Japanese aid is now concentrated. Twenty-one of the 31 LDCs are in Africa.

Japan now gives by far the largest portion of its LDC aid to Bangladesh, he said.

According to the latest statistics, Japan gave $600 million to Bangladesh, compared with $40 million for Tanzania, the next highest LDC recipient of Japanese aid, Kitahara said.

In attempts to reach a compromise agreement, Japan bas proposed that aid-giving countries" substantially" increase their aid to the LDCs so that their assistance will more than double by 1985 compared with the previous five years, be said.

The proposal does not take into account the effects of inflation, he said. Denmark and other countries, now meeting the 0.15 percent objective, have called the Japanese proposal unfair.

Mint too not spared Inflation bogs Brazil economy

BRASILIA, Sept. 12 (AP) - Triple digit inflation, multibillion dollar debts and a currency worth a hit less almost every day keep Brazil's mint laboring overtime to keep a mountain of money in circulation.

The Central Bank has started an advertising campaign, asking citizens to avoid crumbling or folding their money to make it last longer. The bank says it is spending at least $80 million a year to keep 2.5 billion cruzeiro notes and 7.2 hillion coins in circulation.

'Mooey is a very serious husiness," the Central Bank ads say, "it costs money." The Central Bank complains that it burns 600 millioo worn out bank ootes every year.

Brazil must keep its printing presses running overtime just to keep up with the cruzeiro's declining value. With inflation of more than 100 percent for the last year, the nation's money supply has doubled to 1.5 trillion cruzeiros since the beginning of 1980.

The Ceotral Bank actually has been keeping a tight rein oo the money supply this year as an inflation fighting measure. Even so, it has been issuing an average of about 300 million cruzeiros per month. At the heginning of 1980, 45 cruzeiros could buy a dollar oo the official foreign exchange market, Now a dollar costs more than 100 cruzeiros.

Gasoline prices have tripled in the last ear, milk bas more than doubled. Staple food price, appliances and construction materials are all more expensive. Things are far from the stage reached in Germany in the 1930s when sboppers needed a wheelbarrow of money to buy food, but the trend is clear. Some signs of the times:

- Taxi drivers, whose business has slackened with higher costs, and gasoline stations are constantly retooling their meters to keep up with the higher prices and cheaper money. - Store clerks can take out their hostilities by making change with bank notes and coins that weigh a lot and are worth little.

Federal bank statistics show 904 million one-cruzeiro not as are on the street. Each elaborately designed note is worth less than one U.S. cent. There are also million of notes in denominations of five, 10, 50 and 100 cruzeiros, all worth less than a dollar. The largest cruzeiro note available now is a 1,000 cruzeiro bill, JEDDAH. Sept. 13 - With the European markets closed Sunday, the local market rival deposit rates reacted sluggishly with dealers expecting little husiness done. Long-term deposit rates remained relatively firm, but there was some fluctuation in short-term deposit rates. The exchange markets were also reported quict, hut some last minute dollar demand from the Bahrain-hased CBU's -- offshore booking units - pushed up the spot rival/dollar rates. The OBU's continued with their last weakend's game of pusbing dollar deposits down, taking one-month Eurodollar deposit rates to a lnw of 16 3/8 - 17 percent. Eurodollar deposit dealing was, however, restricted to a few transactions and book squaring operations.

One-month JIBOR rates opened in Jeddah at 15 3/8 - 15 3/8 percent, later rising to 15 ½ — 16 percent before some liquidity injections brought down the rates back to opening levels. Week-fixed rates were quoted at 14 - 15 percent and some business was done at 14 2/8 percent levels. It was the medium to longer-term rival deposit rates that still attracted most attention and Sunday saw one-year deposit rates remain at 15 % - 16 % percent levels. The Hajj holidays dominated horrowing strategies with institutions now willing to borrow longer term to avoid being caught in a temporary liquidity shortage.

On the local exchange markets Sunday spot riyal/dollar rates opened at 3.4185-95 after the dollar's rose Friday New York closings, hut the spot rate rose to 3.4198-08 by close of business. Commerical demand for dollars was also reported to be about average by the Kingdom-based banks.

blooking back at the past week, one is struck by the fact that despite continuing dollar deposit rate easing, the rival market has shown a "maturity" that was sometimes lacking. Rates have eased very gradually with none of the sometimes violent gyrations in deposit rates that the market participants observed whenever the dollar's fortuoes changed. This is relatively good for those companies undertaking medium to long-term cost planning, but at the same time the continuance of relatively high rival interest rates bas hit those companies who are borrowers from the banking system. Only the next few weeks will show whether the "mature" rival market is here to stay with us for some time to come.

IMF discounts fall in interest rates

WASHINGTON. Sept. t3 (R) - Attempts by countries to fight inflation will keep interest rates high around the world in coming months, the International Monetary Fund (IMF) said Sunday.

There are signs that the worldwide surge in inflation during 1979 and 1980 has abated and there is now a chance to reverse it, the IMF said in its annual report.

But it gave little hope that high interest rates, considered by Many economists to be a major cause of the global economic slump, would come down soon.

Any slight decline in rates would he shortlived, "if inflation and inflationary pressures are not curbed," the IMF, which oversees the international payments system, said.

Policies to curb monetry expansion had brought substantial progress toward more stable prices in industrial countries. But inflation could only be brought under control "if policies of restraiot are not relaxed prematurely and are accompanied by appropriate fiscal policies," it went on,

The report by the IMF's board of governors was somewhat less pessimistic than ooe on the outlook for the world economic.competed earlier this year by IMF staff. The latest report also placed much less emphasis on the possible need for price controls or incomes policy to fight inflation, IMF officials ooted.

LONDON, (AFP) - A new dirgible. the skyship 500, intended to give rehirth to airship transport, is due to make its maiden flight from Cardington, central IMF staff economists have argued that control of prices may be useful in combatting inflation.

However, many countries represented on the board of governors, including the United States, are philosophically opposed to price controls, preferring to rely on market forces and on keeping a tight rein on the money supply.

The annual report also said many countries had been living beyond their means for years. "One of the obstacles to achievement of a less inflationary monetary environment is learly the prevalence in many countries of government expenditures at levels heyond those which the public is willing to cover through the payment of taxes." This in turn made governments strong competitors in credit markets, adding to upward pressure on interest rates, it said,

Tracy wrests second U.S. Open crown

McEnroe, Borg to contest final

NEW YORK, Sept. 13 (AP) — Tracy Austin overcame swirling winds and Martina Navratilova's devastating serve and vnlley Saturday to win the U.S. Open Tennis Championship. She overcame all three with her patented baseline game to capture her second Open singles title, 1-6, 7-6, 7-6.

Defending men's champion John McEnroe, the top seed, shook off an ankle injury to outlast No. 15 Vitas Gerulaitis 5-7, 6-3, 6-2, 4-6, 6-3 and move into Sunday's final against second-seeded Bjorn Borg of Sweden, whn beat No. 4 Jimmy Connors 6-2, 7-5, 6-4.

Austin's first title, in 1979, made her the youngest singles champion in the history of America's premier tennis event. "I think this means more to me than the first one." said Austin, who received more than S60.000 for the victory. "At 16, everything came too fast ... I think I was too young to realize how important it was."

The loss crushed the hopes of Navratilova. who hroke down and cried as she received a standing ovation at the awards ceremony immediately following the match.

The McEnroe-Gerulaitis match ended the controversy as McEnroe's winning crosscourt overhead landed on the sideline. Gerulaitis disagreed with the linesman and umpire, and as McEnroe stood at the net ready to shake hands, Gerulaitis was standing at the sideline, pointing his racket to a spot just outside the court.

Gerulaitis then stormed the umpire's chair. uttering profanities which were picked up by both the umpire's microphone and CBS-TV's microphone, which was broadcast nationally.

"It's unfortunate to end a match like that." McEnroe said. "I wasn't robbed." Gerulailis said afterward. "I'm not saying I would have won the next point ... hut he (McEnroe) was getting very tight."

Gerulaitis hroke McEnroe in the 12th game to capture the opening set. The hlond right-hander pulled even with his fellow New Yorker at 15-15 when the defending champion netted a forehand volley. Then Gerulaitis reeled off the next three points to take a 1-0 lead.

McEnroe, however, came right hack, breaking Gerulaitis in the opening game of the second set. Gerulaitis, who won three of his four meetings with McEnroe in 1980. double-faulted twice in a row to put the lefthander at hreak point. Then the feisty McEnroe closed out the break when Gerulains forehand volley sailed lnng.

In the third game. McEnroe became visibly upset when, during a rally which Gerulaitis wnn. a ball at McEnroe's feet appeared in be long. It was the game winning point and McEnroe stared at the linesperson before making the changeover. But McEnroe pulled even at one set each when he broke Gerulaitis again in the ninth game, dropping only one point.

By the third set, McEnroe found the range with his pin-point passing shots, hitting lines and running Gerulaitis all over the court. Gerulaitis double-faulted twice in a row for the second time in the match, at 30-30 and 30-40 to hand McEnroe a break in the second game of the third set.

He broke Gerulaitis again in the eighth game to capture the third set, then closed out the first game of the fourth set with an ace. McEnroe twistedd his right ankle in the third game of the set as he feell awkwardly as a shot by Gerulaitis hit at his feet. He sat on the ground briefly as a trainer ran out to talk to him. McEnroe then got up slowly, testing his ankle, as the umpire asked, "McEnroe, do you want an injury timeout?"

The fall appeared the change the flow of the match. Although McEnroe held his serve to go up 2-1. Gerulaitis hroke through on McEnroe's next serve, then held in capture the fourth set.

McEntoe served to begin the final set, and Gerulaitis moved in for the kill. But the lefthander fought through four deuces and staved off three break points to hold serve. Gerulaitis kept the pressure on and McEnroe had to save two more hreak points before holding his serve in the third game, winning the game with a deft chip shot, then had a match point in the eighth game, but Gerulaitis took the next three points to hold serve.

Then came McEnroe, serving for the match. He won the first three points, the third one with an acc. But a forehand down the line was wide before the overhead cross-court shot ended the match and began the latest controversy.

Borg's booming serve produced 14 aces under the lights. It was most productive in the sixth game of the second set when, down love 40, the Swede snapped off three straight aces to pull to deuce. He hit a fourth ace when Connors had an other break point, then won the next two points on a backhand winner and a service winner.

Borg broke Connors, a three-time champion here, in the first and fifth games of the first set. After Connors hroke Borg in the fourth game of the second set, the righthander hroke hack in the second, then broke again in the 11th game before holding his own serve to win the set.

The only break in the final set game in the ninth game. as Connors could win only one point on his own serve. It is Borg's fnurth trip to the U.S. Open finals, a tilled he has never won.

"Tonight 1 felt the timing from the very start of the match." Borg said. "It felt good. "Even at Wimhledon I was not playing like this."

Claude Noel weathers late Gonzalez storm

ATLANTIC CITY, New Jersey, Sept. 13 (AP) — Claude Noel of Trainidad captured the vacant World Boxing Association lightweight title Saturday with a unanimous 15round decision over Rodolfo "Gato" Genzale.

Nucl. 33, mounted an early offensive and held back a strong finish by Gonzalez. 22, of Mexico City. Judges Harold Lederman scored it 145-140 while Frank Capelno had it 145-141 an Sam Sangi had it f44-141.

The title became vacant when the WBA recently stripped American Soan O'Grady of the crown for failing to defend the title against Noel, the No. f contender.

Noel confused Gonzalez in the early rounds, plodding ahead in carefully calculated spurts from the middle of the ring. Backing Gonzalez to the corners, Noef frequently faked right hands and fired left hooks to the jaw and chin of Gonzalez, who had dropped his defenses.

Noel caught Gonzalez three times with this strategy in round four. He opened blood from Gonzalez' right nostril in the seventh round and from his left eye in the 11th round.

The fight was never far from Gonzalez' reach. In round five, Noel's left eye swelled up from a punch after the fighters came together. In rounds eight and 14, Gonzalez opened streams of blood from Noel's right eye.

Gonzalez, connected solidly in late rounds but offered no follow. He staggered Noel with a right to the jaw in round 12 but Noel responded with a flurry of punches, Gonzalez landed several flush punches late in the fight hut could not drop Noel.

Ballas Kayoos Sak

In Buenes Aires, Argentina's Gustavo Balias won the World Boxing Association's new junior bantauweight title Saturday night with an eighth-round technical knockout of South Korea's Suk Chuł Bac.

Venezueian referee Jeaus Cellis stopped the fight at 2:38 of the eighth because of a cut over the Korean's right eye, which had been nearly swollen shut since the sixth round from Bailas' penetrating left jabs.

The Luna Park Stadium ringside doctor checked the cut and advised Cellis to stop the bout. Ballas, 23, now undefeated in 54 fights, dominated the fight from the opening bell, scoring consistently with left-right combinations to the head and body. The 20-year-old Suk's record drops to 13 victories, two losses and one draw, Ballas has had one draw.

Ballas won the shot at the new crown by knocking out Japan's Ryoersu Maruyama last May in Buenos Aires. Suk outpointed Panamanian Husegio Pedrova over 15 rounds in Scoul last June.

The taller Korean tried to take the fight to Ballas and at times backed the Argentine on to the ropes or into the corner. But Ballas covered up, durcked and sweved and the great majority of Suk's punches were off the mark Ballas showed excellent lateral movement and hand speed and gave the Korean what amounted to a boxing lesson. In front of 20,000 wildly partison spectators. The Argentine was unmarked when the fight was stopped, and looked as fresh as he did at the opening hell.

Meanwhile, Sugar Ray Leonard held a closed workout Friday, but neither Thomas. Hearns nor manager-trainer Emanuel Steward thought it would help Leonard.

"We're not concerned about Ray Leonard it any aspect." and Steward. "He's worried about us." Leonard, the World Hoxing Council champion, and Hearns, the World Boxing Association champion, meet for the universal wefterweight title Wednesday night at Caesars Paface.

The problems Leonard will have to wrive in the ring that night are how to itest with Hearns' heavyweight reach and his saunted punching power.

But Leonard, who is 5-foot-10, says he won't be bothered by the 6-1 Hearns' 78-inch reach, four inches longer than Leonard's.

Hearn's answered I contaid a charge that he keeps his left hand too low by saying that he will continue to do so and added: "you don't have to get hit with a lot of shots because you keep your left hand low. You have to be able to think in the ring."

SPLIT, Yugoslavia, Sept. 13 (AP) - Sandor Wladar of Hungary set a new European record two minutes, 00,80 seconds in the men's 200 meters backstroke on the last day of the European Swimming Championships here Saturday.

The 18-year-old Olympic champion from Budapest bettered his own mark of 2:01.72 which he set in the Hungarian capital in June last year.

The Soviet Union set a new European record in the men's 4x100 meters medley relay with a time of three minutes, 44.23 seconds in the last event of the championships. The Soviets also held the old European mark of 3:44.79. The Soviet team was made up of Viktor Kuznetsov, Yuri Kis, Alexei Markovski and Sergei Karsiuk.

The championships, which ended here Sunday, confirmed the hierarchy of swimming in Europe. The East German women won 14 out of the 14 titles at stake and in nine of the individual events won two medals. Their star Ute Geweniger won five races and set a world record of 1:08.00 minutes in the 100 M breastroke, bettering her previous record time of 1:09.39

East Germany topped the overall standings with 696 points. The Soviet Union were runners-up (679 points). West Germany third (503) were in front of Sweden (420) and Britain (392).

Soviet coach Serge Waitchekowski had predicted eight victories for his men's team. They only had seven, Vladimir Salnikov proving a shock loser in the 400 m freestyle to Yugoslav Borut Petrie.

Hungary did well obviously dwarfed by the major swimming powers, with Sandor Wladar winning twice in backstroke while Sweden's Per Johansson won the men's 100 m freestyle.

In Waterpolo, West Germany were surprise champions over both the Soviet Union, who won the silver medal, and the defending titlists the Hungarians, who had to settle for a hronze. In addition, the West Germans are still a young team.

Hungary hints at action ttack on Solidarity stepped up

MOSCOW. Sept. 13 ((Agencies) - The Soviet leadership Sunday continued to mobilize public opinion against Poland's Solidarity trade union following the end of nine days of military exercises on the Soviet Union's western horders.

The 100,000 troops involved in the "West-81" exercises were officially reported to be returning to their bases after a parade and march-past Saturday addressed by Defense Minister Marshal Dmitri Ustinov. The defense minister attacked the United States for carrying out a policy of "aggression and international banditry" and accused the West of trying to undermine the Communist system, particularly by interference in Poland.

The official press pressed on with a cam-paign against the decisions of Solidarity's congress in Gdansk last week, publishing an open letter to Polish wurkers from their Soviet counterparts. The letter, following similar messages from workers in Moscow and Leningrad, was signed by the 100.000strong wurk force of the Kamaz truck plant at Naberezhniye Chelny in Tataria.

The letter accused Solidarity of having the impudence to call on Sovict workers to betray their Communist ideals, by issuing its appeal to the peoples of Eastern Europe. This appeal, which offered support to the idea of free trade unions in other Soviet bloc nations. has not been printed in the Soviet Union, but a nationwide campaign has been launched to condemn it.

We firmly declare: No. gentlemen leaders of Solidarity, you will not succeed in destroying the unity of the international working class movement, in attracting to your side the working class of the Socialist countries." the letter declared.

A commentary in Communist Party newspaper Pravda Sunday described Solidarity's message as an "anti-Socialist and anti-Soviet bacchanalia" which had removed the last masks from the faces of its organizers.

Moscow newspapers and television carried special reports Sunday on the importance of the "West-81" mancuvers which included a marine landing on the Baltic coast not far from the Polish border, Pranda commented: "The Soviet soldier is standing guard over peace on earth. A soldier like that is invinc-

Marshal Ustinov told the troops in his final address that the Soviet armed forces had "an exceptionally great historic responsibility for peace." and they must be permanently ready for battle.

Pope letter to discuss labor issue

CASTEL GANDOLFO. Italy. Sept. 13 (AP) - Pope John Paul II announced Sunday that the third encyclical of his papacy will be published Tuesday and will discuss workers and their position in society. The Pope told 12.000 tourists and pilgrims at his retreat at Castel Gandolfo south of Rome that the encyclical was delayed by the attempt on his life May 13, when he suffered gun shot wounds

"The encyclical, which I had prepared before May 13 but was able to review only in recent weeks, is dedicated to common labor and to workers themselves. It will be published this Tuesday," the Pope said. An encyclical is a letter addressed by the Pope to patriarchs, archbishops and other church leaders. It is one of the most important ways that a pope expresses his thoughts on specific matters.

The commander of the 92nd Infantry Division, speaking to newsmen in his bunker, said that in the recent night attack the Iraqis had lost 200 men. He described as "lies" an Iraqi communique saying that the Iranian troops in his sector had recently lost 3,000 men.

Here and there, newsmen saw about 150burned-out Soviet-built tanks destroyed during the recent attack. The current front line, which is in Iranian territory follows a road constructed by the Iraqis. "We will thank them for it when the war is over," the Iranian officer smiled.

A number of Iranian "Chieftain' tanks had their guns pointed toward the east and west, as though there was the possibility of an Iraqi attack from these sides. In fact, the territory retaken in the battle is more like an enclave in the Iraqi lines.

Iranian men and officers were optimistic of final victory, but there were differences of just how far Iran would go.
